Overview of the Assessment

Scenario: Change Management for Digital Transformation

The world has changed in recent years, and how we handle changes at work has also evolved. To manage change effectively in any organisation, it is important to know the main ideas behind it. The pandemic sped up how we use technology, like computers and robots, in our jobs. This has affected companies all over the world. Some new trends are economic shifts, global supply chain challenges, and a hybrid workforce. When companies go through big technology changes, it is essential to make sure people are comfortable with the change. Sometimes, the focus is too much on technology, like robots, machine learning, predictive analytics, blockchain and cloud computing, and there is a tendency to forget about the people involved in the process, where both are important for success.

Task: Written Report

You are required to select an organisation to produce a business report that blends change management theories with practical applications for their digital evolution. Your insights will shape their successful transition into the digital age.
