Building a Future-Ready Workforce at Commercial Bank of Ceylon

Commercial Bank of Ceylon PLC (ComBank) is Sri Lanka's largest private sector bank and a leader in financial innovation. The Bank prioritizes effective HR Practices as a core strategic pillar, aiming to build a future-ready workforce capable of driving operational excellence, customer-centricity, and sustainable growth. Recruitment at ComBank is designed to support the Bank's operational growth and its transformation into a digitally driven financial institution. The Bank uses campus recruitment, industry-specific hiring, and targeted campaigns to attract graduates and experienced professionals for key banking and technology roles. ComBank runs special drives to boost diversity, targeting underserved regions for rural and ethnic representation and initiatives that have raised female workforce participation to over 30%. However, the bank face difficulty in sourcing candidates with advanced technical and leadership capabilities, particularly for roles in digital transformation, which slows the process of filling critical positions.

Selection is carried out through a clear, step-by-step process—starting with shortlisting applications, followed by aptitude and technical tests, structured interviews, and sometimes assessment centres for leadership roles. Final hiring decisions focus on a mix of technical expertise, problem-solving ability, communication skills, cultural fit, and adaptability to the Bank's fast-changing, digitally driven environment.

ComBank's performance management follows a merit-based approach, using transparent metrics to evaluate employees. Fast-Track Promotions help high performers advance quickly, while appraisals include sustainability goals, assessing contributions to environmental and social initiatives. Awards like Best Sustainable Branch and Department motivate teams to support the Bank's green agenda, though measuring sustainability performance consistently across divisions remains challenging due to differing operations.

Training and development are a core part of ComBank's HR strategy. The Bank offers comprehensive upskilling programs in areas such as digital banking, AI, blockchain, cybersecurity, and regulatory compliance to ensure employees remain competitive in a rapidly changing industry. Sustainability-focused training modules are incorporated to enhance awareness of energy conservation, waste reduction, ethical banking practices, and community engagement. A significant challenge for the Bank is customizing training programs to meet the diverse needs of its multiple business units while effectively assessing the long-term impact of these initiatives on employee performance and organizational outcomes.
